

I am Syed.

I am a student at El Cerrito High School. I am fluent in three languages; English is my third language.

I love to read. I prefer to read fiction because it takes me to an imaginary world. As for non-fiction, I find it very depressing and, given the world we live in, I don't need more sadness.

I like to face challenges and work hard because as I move along, I will face more challenges. I am very optimistic and positive about everything. I always look forward and try to learn from my mistakes.

I believe that everyone should be equally respected. I have learned not to assume things about people by how they look.

I am very competitive. Maybe that's why I love sports, any kind of sport. If I am watching golf, tennis, or NASCAR, I pick my favorite team or player and really get into the game. However, I grew playing cricket and that is still my favorite sport.

I love to travel and visit different countries, meet new people, and learn about their culture and religion. Above all, I like to find out about the misconceptions that people have about people from other countries. I like to share my culture and my background so I can clear all the misconceptions from their minds.
